of Burman has been sending tribute to the about forty Chinese Water Police constables, port during the height of the Tea Shipping not by Admiralty Rule. In support of this the petty tyrant of Ava is content to show most servile homage to the Monarch of China: "Your vassal," he is reported to say. (employing a character used by Ministers of the Chinese Government) "would, with all possible to enten the gamblers in the act, or to ·humility, set forth that under the universal sway of His Holiness the 'streams and hills' are all objects of his fostering care, the a raid be made on the haunt by a strong body We understand that the keel of a stram gun kingdoms of the distant ocean become converted to his civilising rule, and as the sunflower bows before the sun, "so-does all mankind turn with adoration towards the Imperial person." This is a pretty stiff piece the remainder lande on the water side at Throne. But the letter proceeds in a strain pletely surrounded. Notwithstanding this the of self-depreciation that chimes in well with they were apprehended ranning away, baving this gross and absurd flattery. "Succeeding to your barren and far-off dependency of Burmah, your vassal is impressed with the deep charged four months ago with bringing when permitting his country to be enrolled amongst the territory of Yu; and in offering fourth and ninth prisoners were sent to one up, according to rule, the tribute prescribed the land of Burmah is thus included in the heaven of Yan." The epistle goes on to remark that owing to recent wars on the borders communication has long been intercepted, but now that strife has been happily ended, it is fitting the "humble vassal" of his Imperial Majesty should at once offer tribute. This it is hoped the autocrat Central Kingdom will "deign to receive," and will further "graciously lend ear to the feelings of obedience, respect, and submission" entertained by his vassal. A list of presents follows this fulsome letter, and includes five tame elephants, some ivory and jewellery, an assortment of foreign piece | that Chinese only had to be registered. As soon goods, 10,000 sheets of gold leaf and a similar quantity of silver leaf, fifteen peacock's tails, and a number of miscellaneous articles.

Now whatever is published in the Peking Gazette is supposed to be authoritative, and there is no doubt that a present has been received from Mandalay. But it seems unlikely that the King of Burman should adopt such a servile tone to a Power which is so far distant from him, and it is not impossible that a letter of congratulation to the youthful successor of Tung-chi on his accession. accompanied by a present, has been artfully construed into a payment of tribute and the terms of the communication slightly altered -that, in fact; his Golden Footed Majesty pair of gold bangles came on again, when the has been made to say what Chinese vanity prisoner was discharged. conceives he ought to have said. C. Daily News tells us, presented by the Governor of Fobkien, relating how the King of SIAM had begged to be allowed to send tribute, and forwarding a petition equal in humility to that ascribed to the King of BULMAH. The memorial set forth that the sovereigns of Siam had for many generations been invested by the ruler of China and paid tribute without intermission; and finished by declaring that the present King, having lately come to the throne, was desirous of paying the customary, tribute and prayed thrections how to proposit. A few months | days.

later, however, a letter came from the Regent of Sinm, disclaiming all idea of paying tribute, and stating that the presents were sont simply in order to maintain friendly relations. Siam wished, it was true, to send an embassy, but she intended to do so only by way of Tientsin and in the same manner as they overlook the necessity of modulating their other nations. It is therefore quite possible | voices when the congregation is collected in so that there may be a good deal of bunkum about this letter from the King of BURMAH. Except a few men at the hill stations of Darjeeling there are no European soldiers in Bengal proper, the eastern frontier districts being entrusted to a native force of 4,898 and the local police.

In strong contrast to the denuded appearance of this territory, lying just within the eastern frontier of India, is the province of the Panjaub within the north-western frontier, with, among others, its large garrisons of Peahawar and Rawni Pindee, of 5,839 and 19 gons and 3,567 and 12 guns respectively. The Punjanb frontier force, under the orders of the Lieutenant Governor of the province, numbers 12,616 men. Of these 8,928 are infantry, 2,852 cavalry, and 634 artillery. With the exception of 111 men, the infantry of this force is composed entirely of Punjanb, Sikh, or Goorkha regiments, and the artillery of the force consists of batteries manued by natives. Of the Bombay Presidency, the effective force is given in the report at 9,455 British and 21,021 native troops. Of the former 2,169 are etationed at Poonab, the headquarters of the principal military division of the Presidency; the rest are in Central India, attached along the west coust and in Scinde. It appears from some statistics referring to the native army of Bombay which are given in the India Blue-book that the average age of the Bombay soldier is thirty years and five months, his ing out the wishes of the memorial committee. 12 lbs. As regards the weight, it is to height 5 feet 6 inches, and his weight 8 st. be hoped some mistake has been made in tho a physical standard as this weight indicates are really repruited in the Bombay Presidency, it would almost seem as if desirable recruits are an bard to obtain in India as they are in England. The army under the Commander-in-> Chief at Madras supplies troops for the central provinces, the Nizam's territory, Mysore, and Burmah, as well as for the Presidency; and is composed of 25,000 natives and 8,172 British troops. At Sekunderabad, the headquarters of the forces stationed in the Nizam's territory, and at Bangalore, the headquarters of the Mysore risons of 1,684 and 1,011. British troops respectively. The rest of the European troops beexception of 2,232 in British Burmab, are st Nagpore, Belary, Madras, Trichinopoly, and forces, serving in the Madras Presidency, are the Hyderabad Contingent, the cavalry of which force is as efficient a body of troops as is to be found in India, and the Mysore Sillador ruthless horsemen of Tippoo Sabib in 1799 .-

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published Tips, Chalks, Cloth, and every requisite for the at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

IMPERIAL QUARTO.

FOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new this Work stands unrivalled. All tho new words which the Chinese have of late years been table as good as new. compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is principle, giving a light equal to twelve ordinary and at Whampon, and will have immediate desfully inustrated and explained, forming exer- lamps. cises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are. given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast score of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Mcchurst's English LANE, ORAWFORD AND CO. and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac-Hongkong, Uanton and Macao Steamboat Co.'s ters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the HONGKONG, SHANGHAI, AND JAPAN student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples and forwarded to Calcutta by the EARLIEST this work contains more than five times as opportunity. many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who under Trade, objects of Natural History, Furniture, Fungue, 20 bags, at $22.40, by Kwong-him- stands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chi-Chinese Language, in two Parts. indispensable to all Huropeans residing in plants subjects fully with which very few mparties resident in England and interested in It comprises upwards of two thousand large inform the public that his Shop has been

AMERICAN HUMOUR. Extracts. PORMS OF EXPRESSION. THE DEFEAT OF THE AMAZONS (April 6th, 1875.) Once more the country's saved. The foc is held at bay: All honour to the brave. . Who won the glorious day. Who swore they would maintain Each heaven-born institution, And taltled to austoin The British Constitution. What valour they displayed -What pen can o'er extol it-What weighty jokes were made By Lentham and by Smollett. Then Chaplin for a season. Abandoning " Isthmian games," Hurled linek the brinds of Treason. Backed up by Henry James. And Hope, that man of churches. When fairly under weigh. With many smiles and lurches Pitched deep into the fray. Yes, deadly was the fight In which they had to strive, a But the champions of the right-They won by Thirty-Five. So the women had to yield, And betake themselves to flight, Pursued across the field By Hartington and Bright. And we're saved from grave disasters, Contrived by female hordes, Who on their lords and masters Had dured to draw their swords. Who had dared to say to men (The vain, presumptuous erew). With threatening voice and pen. -"-We're just as good as you." Yes, they dored refused compliance To be looked upon as slaves. Which roused to stern defiance Leuthum Smollett, and the braves And all the deadly courage Of their manly bosoms rose To guard the rights of men Against their female foes. The battle new is over: The victory is gained, — And the triumph with the triumph at Has righteensly remained And women still shall hold the place Of idiots and of thieres. Which is their very fitting place, As Parliament believes. And we're saved from revolution. From rapine, sword, and flames, By the strength and resolution Of Leatham, Hope, and James. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF NAMES. The streets of great cities, as one may see prominently in Paris, in their designations often contain a register of the most striking events of their national history. Genuine growth and an anecdotal record, which only require the pen of a cunning writer to make them as attractive as a good novel. London. in this view, is particularly interesting; and Emerson, I recollect, in his book, "How the Great City Grew" (London, 1862), tells an amusing story about the great fire in London, which certain pious persons observed to have commenced at a street called Pudding-lane, and ended at a place called Pye-corner, in memory of which they caused the figure of a fat boy to be put up at Smith. | who described himself as 'squandering about field, with the inscription on his stomach, permischous' had no iden that his expression fire of London, occasioned by the sin of glut- | She slings the nastiest ankle in old Kentony, 1666."
